“Script Writing Competition: A Literary Club Activity”

Topic :	“Script Writing Competition: A Literary Club Activity”
Date of event :	March 30 ,2011
Aim of the Event :	The ever growing demand for movies and plays has made a market for good scripts. If you like to write, you may want to consider writing a script. It can truly be a very rewarding job. If you do it right, you can be sure that you can really make your dreams come true by just writing a script. This was the driving force behind getting everyone ready for this competition.
Event Report in brief:	Script writing is not something that only a select few can do, it is something that a regular person with enough imagination can learn, apply and develop. This event was witness to a sea of scripts from students, some happy, some sad, some scary and others were too whacky. The theme given to students for this competition was “Nuclear Family and Loss of Values”. The winner of this competition was Mr. Vijay Chandola-Student of MBA II Semester and the runner up for the same was Ms. Surabhi Pahuja of the same batch. Scripts are meant to be written, read and told. That’s exactly what we did in this competition.
