Description of the event	Students were given a brief description about group discussion stating that this is essentially an arrangement wherein a group of individuals are made to sit in a group (usually of ten to twenty) and asked to share their opinions on a certain topic of discussion and use rationale to conclude at the end. The instructor emphasized upon the fact that speaking effectively in a group discussion is achieved by means of body language as well as public speaking skills. Students were also

given a number of tips to make ones performance in a group discussion effective and impressive.

After that, all the students were divided in a group of eight members each and given instructions which were one minute for thinking and ten minutes for the discussion. The group discussion for all three groups was then held one by one. At the end and also in the course of the discussion, all students were given individual feedback by the instructor.
