Presentations on Logical & Aptitude Reasoning

Topic :	Presentations on Logical & Aptitude Reasoning
Date of event :	February 18, 2011
Aim of the Event	Giving an effective presentation is a skill. It is imperative to have good communication, persuasive skills and thorough subject knowledge to give a good presentation. This activity had two purposes: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• To improve the confidence level and communication skills of students• To enhance their knowledge on certain important issues which are an integral part of the interviews conducted by companies For the above mentioned reasons, a session on Presentations on Logical & Aptitude Reasoning was conducted for the students of MCA II semester.
Description of the event	Students were assigned the presentation topic in advance so that they could come prepared for the presentation. They were told that they would be judged on the following parameters: Content, body language, presentation skills, query handling and physical appearance.

The instructor then went on to tell them in detail the expectations from a good presentation and also mentioned the common mistakes usually made by students in the same.

On one hand some of the groups showed tremendous knowledge of the topic and good confidence level while some just read the presentation and did not add any new ideas.

The students were provided with individual feedback by the faculty instructor in detail.
