Online test on Data Interpretation and Logical Reasoning

Topic :	Online test on DI and LR
Date of event :	March 18,2011
Aim of the Event :	Written tests of objective nature on data interpretation and logical reasoning have always been the part of the recruitment procedures of various companies of repute. To enhance these skills of our students this activity was conducted under the mentorship program of the institute.
Event Report in brief:	With the aim of grooming and enhancing the skills of students of MBA first year, an online test consisting of multiple choice questions about Logical reasoning and Data interpretation was conducted. The best part about DI and LR section is that there are hardly any concepts that you need to know before the test. This section largely tests the reasoning skills of students which can be acquired/fine-tuned through practice and more practice. In order to make our students stand out extraordinarily during the campus placement drive, we constantly put them to such challenges. This also makes them aware about the current industry pattern of recruitment procedure wherein the companies usually begin with a written test, covering aptitude questions. This was a mentally stimulating activity for the students, at the end of which they all said Eureka.....!
