Date of event :	January 16, 2012
Aim of the Event	Presentations combine both visual and verbal elements. It is the way we "exhibit" our message. Presentation skills are extremely essential to succeed professionally. It is no longer enough for one to have the necessary capability to do the job, one should also be able to talk well, write well, and present himself attractively to his superiors. The best way to let other people know of your capability is by presenting a great idea or a plan during a meeting. Presentation skills include good communication style and positive body language. The presenter should have done an in-depth and comprehensive study of the topic he / she is assigned and present it in an intelligent and confident manner. It is only then that one can leave his/her mark as a versatile presenter.
