Session on Presentations

Topic :	Session on Presentations for students of MCA II
Date of event :	February 13, 2012
Aim of the Event	There are three parts of a successful presentation: introduction, content, and conclusion. Introduction outlines the purpose and goal of what the presenter wants to achieve by the presentation. Content is the core of presentation and this part makes the audience sit up in their chairs and listen attentively. Conclusion is all about summarizing what you have just told your audience so they can remember everything in a nutshell. This was a confidence building session wherein students were made aware of their presentation skills.
Description of the event:	The main idea behind this session was to help the students' visualize their career path and a strong sense of direction with their overall development. Students were evaluated on parameters like Knowledge, Communication Skills, Content quality, Body Language &amp; Physical Appearance. Topics were interesting enough to capture the interest of all the students and they gained enough knowledge through these presentations. Topics that were covered for the presentation were: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Real Time Operating System</li><li>• Image Processing and Applications</li><li>• CDMA &amp; Blue tooth technology</li></ul>
