“Article Writing Competition: A WOMEN CELL Activity”

Topic :	“Article Writing Competition: A WOMEN CELL Activity” on “New generation’s perception on gender equality”.
Date of event :	August 30, 2011
Aim of the Event :	Articles are considered to be the written form of expressing one’s view in the most amicable manner. The aim of this event was to give an opportunity to students who are good at expressive and creative writing. Writing is an art as it requires clarity of thought, right choice of words and drafting of the document in an articulate manner. The topic of Gender Equality is what attracted students towards this event. It looked as if students were here to give a vent to what they were feeling.
Event Report in brief:	Over the past decade, gender equality and women’s empowerment have been explicitly recognized as key not only to the health of nations, but also to social and economic development. India’s National Population Policy 2000 has empowering women for health and nutrition as one of its crosscutting strategic themes. Additionally, the promotion of gender equality and empowering of women is one of the eight Millennium Development Goals(MDG) to which India is a signatory. The pairing of the two concepts of women’s empowerment and gender equality into one MDG implicitly recognizes that gender equality and women’s empowerment are two sides of the same coin: progress toward gender equality requires women's empowerment and women's empowerment requires increase in gender equality.

The students were given a time slot of one hour in which they wrote their heart out!

The winner of this competition was Ms. Surabhi Pahuja -Student of MBA III Semester, First runner up Ms. Shruti Yaksh and second runner up Ms. Megha Garg of the same batch.
